THE DOOLEN FAMILY

1765 - 1933

Compiled by

Charles I. Doolen

DANIEL DOOLEN, SR.

Daniel Doolen was born in Ireland about 1765. He came to America with three brothers, John, Hardin and William.

Daniel married Mary Bridges (a daughter of a Revolutionary soldier, John Bridges and Elizabeth Murry) and lived in Georgia for some time, afterwards moving to Kentucky where he died about 1829 or 1830. Around his name some interest is gathered as to our family, though we know but very little about him. He was with his eldest son, William, serving in the American Army during the greater part of the War of 1812 and probably with Governor Shelby of Kentucky. He was a slave holder and took kindly to that belief.

There were nine children, William, Murry, Jesse, Daniel, Jr., Mrs. Nancy Helms, Mrs. Mary Johnson, Mrs. Rachel Belew, Mrs. Mattie Brown, and the other name is lost. One daughter and one son sleep by his side at Mayfield, Kentucky.

His widow, Mary, and sons, Jesse, Daniel, Jr. and some others of the Doolen family came to Illinnis about 1830 and settled in Marion and Fayette Counties, near old Fosterburg. Some of Jesse's offspring live in that locality now.

Murry's folks moved to Macon County and Daniel, Jr. and most of his folks lived in and around the old home place. The others scattered to different parts of the United States.

The mother, Mary, died several years after coming to Illinois, (date lost) and was buried in the Sandy Branch Cemetery in Foster Township (grave lost).

DANIEL DOOLEN, JR.

Daniel Doolen, Jr., was born May 13, 1812, in Kentucky. He was married in about 1836 to Elizabeth Mahon, who was born May 28, 1817. She was a daughter of Isham Mahon and Dolly Lansford, who came to America from France when small children and settled in Virginia and then moved to Illinois about 1830 or a little later. This couple was blessed with thirteen children:

	Born
Martha	Aug. 13, 1837
Dolly	Feb. 10, 1839
Lucinda	Jan. 26, 1841
Benjamin	Feb. 23, 1843

Fannie	Sept. 29, 1855
Isham W.	Mar. 20, 1858
Emily	Jan. 19, 1861
Clara W.	Dec. 22, 1865

Daniel Doolen and wife settled in Foster Township, Marion County, Illinois, section eleven (11), where all their children were born and where they grew to manhood and womanhood, except two, James Daniel and Emily, who died when small children.

Daniel Doolen was an extensive farmer and stockman, was an auctioneer and served as a Justice of the Peace for several years. He was an Associate Judge of the County Court of Marion County from 1861 to 1865. He died Sept. 7, 1877, and was buried in the Doolen Cemetery in Foster Township. His wife, Elizabeth, died April 17, 1889 and was buried beside her husband.

James Daniel died Oct. 11, 1854, and Emily died Aug. 23, 1866, and are also buried in the family cemetery.
